WEEKLY SUMMARY....19

FEEDSTUFFS: WHOLESALE PRICES....20-21

FEEDSTUFFS WHOLESALE PRICES SEPTEMBER 1985....22-23

HIGHLIGHTS: Wheat markets traded higher responding to expanded export trade, delayed winter wheat planting and weather damage to spring wheat. Feed grain markets showed strength most of the week as rain or snow delayed harvest over wide areas but markets fell at the close as Russia switched some corn contracts to wheat for immediate delivery.

WHEAT: Wheat markets firmed with delayed winter wheat planting, delayed spring wheat harvest and damage to spring wheat from excessive rains and a pick-up in export wheat demand offering broad market support. Kansas City No.1 hard red ordinary protein wheat advanced 10 3/4 cents per bushel. St. Louis No.2 soft red winter wheat went up 12 cents per bushel. Minneapolis No.1 dark northern spring wheat 14 percent protein traded 7 1/2 cents higher per bushel. Portland No.1 soft white wheat finished 4-6 cents higher per bushel.

CORN: Corn traded unevenly all week as harvest was delayed over large areas; a weaker U.S. dollar caused expanded export trade but a switch from corn to wheat by Russia at the close weakened all corn markets on Thursday. Omaha No.2 yellow corn up 7 cents for the week but down 3-4 cents from mid-week highs. White corn markets showed little activity and unchanged at Kansas City.

OATS AND BARLEY: Barley markets were mostly higher under expanded export demand but oat markets were dull and mostly lower.

SORGHUM: Yellow sorghum markets were supported much of the period by good poultry feeder demand, a little pick-up in export buying and rain delayed new crop harvest. Most of the market strength faded at the close as Russia switched some corn vessels to wheat.

OILSEEDS: Oilseed markets were supported by rain delayed harvest and a pick-up in export trade but a large world oilseed crop depressed soybean oil markets and weakened soybean markets in spots. Decatur No.1 yellow soybeans closed down 3 1/2-7 1/2 cents per bushel. Minneapolis flaxseed advanced 40 cents per bushel and sunflower seed rose 25 cents per hundred pounds.

SOURCE: FEDERAL GRAIN INSPECTION SERVICE

HIGHLIGHTS: Feedstuffs and feed grains traded in mixed price trends during the week ended October 8th. Domestic feeder demand showed light spotty expansion and export demand picked up. New crop feed grain harvest depressed buyers ideas but rain and snow delays caused spot price increases.

OILSEEDS: Soybean meal traded mostly higher reflecting a pick up in export demand, tight farmer soybean holding and a cut back in processor run-time. Decatur soybean meal traded $5.00 higher per ton for 44 percent protein meal and $4.00 higher for 48 percent protein meal. Cottonseed meal markets advanced sharply as rains delayed new crop cotton harvest and cattle feeder demand picked up. Minneapolis linseed meal rose $2.00 per ton but 28 percent protein sunflower meal traded unchanged. Minneapolis sunflower oil advanced 1/2 cent but Decatur soybean oil declined 76 points per pound.

ANIMAL PROTEIN: Animal protein feeds traded mostly higher with stocks tight and demand fairly good for domestic and export usage. Meat meal markets were steady to up $10.00 and feather meal $2.50-10.00 per ton higher. Fish meal higher at Gulf and East Coast port markets but steady at Pacific Coast. Imported fish meal firmed at all markets.

CORN FEEDS: Corn feeds showed market strength in spite of lower cash corn markets as production declined seasonally and export interest picked up. Corn gluten feed traded $2.00-3.00 higher and corn gluten 60 percent protein meal traded steady to $2.50 per ton higher. Distillers' dried grains continued scarce and firm. Brewers' dried grains are scarce and traded narrowly mixed. Yellow hominy feed markets were steady to $6.00 per ton higher in light trade.

WHEAT MILLFEEDS: Heavy flour mill grind was offset by expanded jobber buying and a slight pick-up in feed mixer usage. Prices ranged $1.00 lower at St. Louis to up $7.00 per ton at Buffalo for bulk wheat middlings.

ALFALFA PRODUCTS: Alfalfa markets were little changed in dull trade. Unseasonal snow and cold temperatures limited production but buying interest showed little pick-up. Toledo, Ohio alfalfa meal markets excepted the general trend as processors asked $4.50 per ton higher prices.

MOLASSES: Feeding cane molasses traded higher but in a mixed trend. Prices ranged steady to $5.00 higher in the Gulf, Midwest and East Coast markets while the Southeast and West Coast held steady. Available molasses in short supply primarily in the Gulf Coast, however, crushing operations beginning in Louisiana and Texas which is expected to provide additional supplies within a couple weeks. Harvesting of sugarbeets well underway with quality of beets reported good. Beet molasses prices steady in moderately active trading.

FEEDSTUFFS: Wholesale prices, dollars per ton, bulk except Soybean Oil, Sunflower Oil and Animal Fat cents per pound

HIGHLIGHTS: Wheat markets traded upward during the week ending October 17. Export demand expanded as Algeria bought soft and hard red winter wheat under the bonus program and a weakening U.S. dollar market encouraged other export trade. Canada cut off any new export sales of quality wheat due to weather damage to the crop. Corn markets fell sharply as harvest resumed over much of the nation. Oilseed markets were mostly lower under harvest pressure but tight farmer holding and rain delayed soybean harvest in spots caused some price advances.

WHEAT: Wheat markets responded to broad support as Canada announced new wheat export sales would be curtailed, Algeria bought U.S. wheat under the bonus program, farmers hold wheat stocks tightly and new crop wheat planting lagged due to rain and snow. Kansas City No.1 hard red winter ordinary protein wheat rose 5 1/2 cents per bushel. St. Louis No.2 soft red winter wheat went up 14-17 cents per bushel. Minneapolis No.1 dark northern spring 14 percent protein wheat advanced 8 1/2 cents and Portland No.1 soft white wheat traded 2-4 cents higher per bushel.

CORN: Yellow corn markets declined under pressure from new crop harvest, tight storage and lack of new export business. Omaha No.2 yellow corn dropped 20-21 cents per bushel. White corn trade slow with milling quality No.2 rail delivery bid steady delivered to Kansas City elevators. Truck white corn bids continue to soften and follow yellow corn markets lower.

OATS AND BARLEY: Oats markets weakened along with cash corn trends but barley closed mixed as cattle were moved to dry lots in mountain areas.

SORGHUM: Sorghum traded mostly lower under pressure from new crop harvest and declining cash corn markets. Rain delayed harvest caused spot price increases. Kansas City No.2 yellow sorghum fell 9 cents but the Texas High Plains market traded mixed, 10 cents lower to 15 cents higher per hundred pounds.

OILSEEDS: Oilseed markets were mostly lower under new crop pressure and lower prices for vegetable oils. Higher protein meal markets, rain delayed harvest, and tight soybean holding by farmers gave some support. Illinois Processor soybean bids traded mixed, 2 1/2 cents lower to 3 1/2 cents higher per bushel. Minneapolis flaxseed fell 45 cent per bushel and sunflower seed declined 60 cents per hundred pounds.

HIGHLIGHTS: Feedstuffs and feed grains traded in mixed price trends during the week ended October 16. Domestic feed demand showed only spotty expansion in areas where cool temperatures and snow cover increased animal feed requirements. Full grain harvest was delayed over wide areas by rain or snow cover and farmers reported some freeze damage and some sprout damage from excess moisture. The strong U.S. dollar market restricted export feestuffs trading.

OILSEEDS: Soybean meal traded mostly higher as rains delayed soybean harvest and farmers held old crop soybeans tightly. Decatur 44 percent protein soybean meal rose $4.50 and 48 percent protein meal advanced $5.50 per ton. Cottonseed meal traded $3.50 higher at California Mills and Southern Mills markets advanced $18.75 per ton as rains delayed cotton harvest. Minneapolis linseed meal rose $6.00 per ton but 28 percent protein sunflower meal traded unchanged. Minneapolis sunflower oil declined 3/4 cent and Decatur soybean oil fell 122 points per pound.

ANIMAL PROTEIN: Meat meal markets moved generally higher supported by steady feed mixer demand, fairly tight supplies and strong vegetable protein markets. Minneapolis meat meal rose $10.00 and feather meal advanced $10.00 per ton. Fish meal markets rose $2.50 at California markets and went up $17.50-25.00 at Gulf-East coast port markets. Fishing has ended in Gulf waters and processors are holding stocks tightly.

CORN FEEDS: Corn harvest is depressing cash corn markets in spite of weather delays and most corn feeds were under pressure. Illinois points corn gluten feed traded $4.50 lower and 60 percent protein corn gluten meal declined $2.50 per ton. Distillers dried grains remain in tight supply and traded $4.00-7.10 higher per ton. Brewers' dried grains fell $2.00-12.50 per ton as users switched to lower cost alternate feeds. Yellow hominy feed remains in tight suppply and steady to up $5.00 per ton.

WHEAT MILLFEEDS: Wheat millfeeds ranged higher as range cube demand expanded. Prices moved generally $4.00-7.00 per ton higher.

ALFALFA PRODUCTS: Alfalfa demand began to show a little pick-up in buying interest as producing season neared completion and cooler temperatures encouraged heavier buying. Markets were steady to up $1.00-2.00 per ton at most markets for dehydrated alfalfa pellets and meal. Sun-cured activity remains very light at steady prices.

MOLASSES: Feeding cane molasses continued its upward trend. Prices ranged steady to $5.00 higher in the Gulf, East coast, and Midwest markets. California ports remained at steady prices. Improved demand coupled with seasonally short supplies lent support to the market. Sugar beet harvest near completion in Red River Valley with yields generally lower than expected.

FEEDSTUFFS: Wholesale prices, dollars per ton, bulk except Soybean Oil, Sunflower Oil and Animal Fat cents per pound

FEED:

WEEKLY SUMMARY.....13

FEEDSTUFFS: WHOLESALE PRICES.....14-15

HIGHLIGHTS: Wheat markets traded higher as farmers selling continued light and flour mills competed with exporters for the light offerings. Demand remains shallow for export as large world wheat supplies reduced the need for U.S. wheat to supply world markets. A strong U.S. dollar continues a deterent in export trade. Feed grain markets showed spotty strength as rains kept harvest behind normal but at the close, a five day forecast for sunny skies over much of the nation weakened buyers ideas. A shortage of soybean stocks at ports raised export bids to attract soybeans to load waiting ships.

WHEAT: Light farmer selling and tight supplies of high protein wheat kept mills and exporters competing for the light offerings. Kansas City No. 1 hard red winter wheat traded up 7 1/2 cents per bushel. St. Louis No. 2 soft red winter wheat ranged 5-10 cents higher per bushel. Minneapolis No. 1 dark northern spring 14 percent protein wheat rose 3/4 cents per bushel. Portland No. 1 soft white wheat advanced 2-3 cents per bushel.

CORN: Yellow corn markets traded generally higher as recent rains kept most farmers out of fields. A favorable five day forecast was expected to permit harvest to resume over wide areas and at the close, buyers started cutting basis for feed grains. Most yellow corn markets closed up 4-5 cents but spots were lower. White corn markets showed little activity and buying basis was steady for No. 2 milling quality delivered by rail but trade bids showed spot weakness of around 5 cents per bushel at the close.

OATS AND BARLEY: Oats and barley trade is extremely thin at narrowly mixed price levels.

SORGHUM: Sorghum markets resumed in the southwest and harvest pressure depressed Texas High Plains prices 15-20 cents per hundred pounds. Kanas City sorghum traded 1-2 cents higher due to rain delayed harvest and strong demand from southern poultry feeders.

OILSEEDS: Oilseed markets traded mixed as a shortage of soybeans at port caused exporters to raise cash bids to attract stocks to load waiting vessels. Spots trended weaker as favorable harvest weather returned to the midwest. Illinois Processor bids rose 2-6 cents per bushel. Minneapolis flaxseed declined 30 cents and sunflower seed traded 10 cents lower per hundred pounds.

HIGHLIGHTS: Feedstuffs and feed grains traded mixed during the week ended October 22. Light supplies continue to be the main strengthening force as demand for export and domestic usage is hand-to-mouth in most instances. There was some booking of alfalfa for winter months and distillers' dried grains traded for October-November shipment.

OILSEEDS: Rain delayed harvest tightened oilseed supplies but slowed feed demand, restricted market strength. Soybean meal traded mixed, 50 cents lower to 50 cents higher for 44 percent protein at Decatur. Cottonseed meal closed $2.00 higher at California Mills but Southern Mills markets advanced $18.75 per ton. Minneapolis linseed meal held steady in spite of tight supply as users awaited new crop movement. Minneapolis 28 percent protein sunflower meal traded unchanged and sunflower oil held steady. Decatur soybean oil moved up 1/4 cent or more per pound.

ANIMAL PROTEIN: Animal proteins traded steady to slightly stronger as tight supply was offset by slowed feed mixer demand. Meat meal traded unchanged to $2.50 higher and feather meal traded unchanged to up $15.00 per ton. Fish meal markets are strong due to tight supplies.

CORN FEEDS: Corn feeds traded narrowly mixed as rains continue to delay corn harvest and cash corn markets moved higher at all reporting markts. Demand eased a little as the strong U.S. dollar market restricted export trade and domestic demand eased as weather conditions moderated over much of the country.

WHEAT MILLFEEDS: Flour mill grind is fairly heavy but wheat millfeeds are considered a good buy and supplies have been kept cleaned up in most areas. In areas of heaviest flour grind, prices showed $1.50-2.00 per ton loss, while in a few spots where flour mills lost a little run-time, prices moved up $2.00 per ton.

ALFALFA PRODUCTS: Alfalfa markets showed a firmer tone as some winter bookings were reported. Most markets were reported unchanged. Alfalfa Center of Nebraska dehydrated alfalfa pellets traded 50 cents higher per ton. Sun-cured alfalfa markets continue dull and unchanged.

MOLASSES: Feeding cane molasses trended mostly steady in the Midwest and West Coast as well as Albany, New York, while New Orleans and Baltimore were steady to $5.00 higher per ton. Supplies continued limited in the Gulf Coast, however, new crop supplies are becoming available in Louisiana and Texas this week. Florida cane harvesting also getting underway. Molasses demand fair from feedlots in the Great Plains and from feed manufactures in anticipation of increased feed requirements this fall.. Sugarbeet molassess steady under good demand. Much of this season's expected supply is now under contract.

FEEDSTUFFS: Wholesale prices, dollars per ton, bulk except Soybean Oil, Sunflower Oil and Animal Fat cents per pound

DISTILLERS' AND BREWERS' DRIED GRAINS: U.S. PRODUCTION AND ENDING STOCKS, SEPTEMBER 1985....23

HIGHLIGHTS: Wheat and feed grain markets traded mostly higher during the week ended October 31. Markets received broad support from tight holding at the farm level with farmers placing large amounts of wheat and corn in the loan program and storing much of the sorghum and soybean crop as harvest moves past the mid point. Rain delays over southern and northern areas added support. A sharp pick up in export interest occurred as the U.S. dollar market weakened against stronger foreign currencies. China fell behind on corn export shipments, prompting Japan and USSR to increase corn purchases from the United States.

WHEAT: Flour mill demand eases a little as domestic and export flour needs were well covered for nearby positions but free wheat stocks are tight due to heavy movement into the loan program. Kansas City No.1 hard red winter ordinary wheat traded 5 1/2 cents higher per bushel. St. Louis No.2 soft red winter wheat advanced 1-10 cents per bushel. Minneapolis No.1 dark northern spring 14 percent protein wheat went up 6 cents per bushel. Portland No.1 soft white wheat rose 3-5 cents per bushel.

CORN: Light farmer selling and a surge of export trade to Japan and USSR firmed yellow corn markets with the St. Louis market up 16 cents, Omaha sharply higher, and Minneapolis market up 9 1/4 cents per bushel. White corn trade slow due to lack of buying interest and farmers are reluctant to sell at current prices. Many bids for white corn are below the yellow corn price: Some farmers have switched white corn acreage to the yellow varieties which generally give larger yields.

OATS AND BARLEY: Barley markets were unchanged to up 5 cents and oats markets advanced mostly 8-10 cents per bushel.

SORGHUM: Yellow grain sorghum traded mixed as harvest expanded in the southwest weakening markets but in the midwest rains delayed harvest and farmers moved large amounts into storages. Kansas City yellow sorghum advanced 14-15 cents but Texas High Plains market fell 5 cents per hundred pounds.

OILSEEDS: Soybean markets turned stronger as rain in southern and northern areas delayed harvest and farmers tended to hold soybeans until harvest nears completion. A pick-up in export demand added strength to cash soybean markets. Illinois Points processor bids rose 12-14 cents per bushel. Sunflower seed traded unchanged at Duluth but the Minneapolis market declined 30 cents per hundred pounds.

HIGHLIGHTS: Feedstuffs and feed grain markets traded in mixed price trends during the week ended October 29. Feedstuffs demand eased as the strong U.S. dollar market discouraged export trade and mild, wet weather allowed pastures to green over most of the country, reducing animal feed requirements. Feed grains were depressed by the potentially large crop but rain delayed harvest and a surge of export trade near the close of the period caused widespread market recovery.

OILSEEDS: Soybean meal traded mixed as some processors returned to fall operation and new crop soybean harvest spread northward. Rain returned to much of the soybean area at the close and stopped combining over a large acreage. Decatur 48 percent protein soybean meal rose $2.00 but the Kansas City market declined $6.60 per ton. Cottonseed meal markets were easier in the Southwest but unchanged at California and Southern Mills. Minneapolis linseed meal declined $2.00 and 28 percent protein sunflower meal went down $5.00 per ton. Minneapolis sunflower oil declined 2 1/4 cents per pound. Decatur soybean oil fell over 1/2 cent per pound.

ANIMAL PROTEIN: Meat meal trade declined and prices were steady to lower. Tight supply tended to limit the down turn. Kansas City market was barely steady, the Minneapolis market went $5.00 lower and the Los Angeles market was $2.50 lower. Fish meal markets were generally steady with demand slow and supply tightly held.

CORN FEEDS: Cash corn markets moved sharply lower the past few weeks under heavy harvest pressure and this tended to weaken corn feed markets. Rain moved in to stop combining over large areas at the close and a surge of export buying caused some market recovery. Illinois Points corn gluten feed traded steady but 60 percent protein corn gluten meal went down $4.00 per ton. Distillers' dried grains markets are steady to firmer as supplies remain short of the demand. Brewers' dried grains production continues to decline more than seasonally as Brewers' move toward liquid syrups for brewing stock and Brewers' dried grains traded firmly unchanged. Yellow hominy feed traded $1.00 per ton lower at Illinois Points.

WHEAT MILLFEEDS: Reduced flour mill run-time tightened supplies and jobber covering strengthened millfeeds markets with Buffalo middlings up $7.00, St. Louis $2.00 higher, Kansas City market up $2.50 and Minneapolis $5.00 higher per ton. West Coast millrun markets traded $2.00-10.00 per ton higher.

ALFALFA PRODUCTS: Alfalfa harvest is rapidly nearing seasons end with many plants expecting to finish dehydrating during the current week. Most processors were raising prices around $2.00 per ton for November delivery. Some price increases went into effect for this week, generally around $1.00 per ton. Sun-cured alfalfa markets were mostly steady but with some northern prodcution areas raising prices $1.00-2.00 per ton.

MOLASSES: Feeding cane molasses trended mostly steady. Overall demand was light to moderate. Hurricane Juan hit the Louisiana cane crop; reports indicate considerable damage. Some dealers are reluctant to make new sales until crop damage more clearly assessed. Sugarbeet molasses remained steady under good demand with much of the season's crop under contract.

ANNUAL FEATURES

FEEDSTUFFS: WHOLESALE PRICES 1983/84 - 1984/85....15-23

HIGHLIGHTS: Wheat and feed grain markets traded in mixed market trends during the week ended November 7. Heavy harvest and rapidly filling storage facilities tended to depress markets. Mild temperatures and ample on-farm-feeds reduced animal feed requirement. On the market strengthening side was a pick-up in export trade as the U.S. dollar market weakened good flour mill demand for wheat and tight holding at the farm level. A pick up in export soybean demand and favorable crush margin kept soybean values up. Re-opening of the Welland Canal expanded grain trade in the upper midwest.

WHEAT: Wheat markets were mostly stronger as farmers sold only enough wheat to keep operating income and went into loan programs with the bulk of their crops. Flour mills ran nearly full schedules ahead of the Thanksgiving holiday. Kansas City No. 1 hard red winter ordinary protein wheat rose 2 3/4 cents and St. Louis No. 2 soft red winter wheat traded steady to 9 cents higher per bushel. Minneapolis No. 1 dark northern spring 14 percent protein wheat advanced 8 3/4 cents but Portland No. 1 soft white wheat declined 2-3 cents per bushel.

CORN: Yellow corn markets traded mixed as heavy harvest and tight storage depressed markets while spots showed strength as farmers placed most of the newly harvested corn in storgage. The Omaha market declined 4-9 cents but the St. Louis market advanced 9-10 cents per bushel. White corn markets are inactive and traded at mostly steady prices.

OATS AND BARLEY: Oats markets traded mostly 1-2 cents higher, barley traded unchanged to higher with no market reporting lower prices at the close of the period.

SORGHUM: Sorghum harvest reached peak movement with large amounts moving to terminal markets for storage. Farmers sold little grain except in Southwest areas where the market fell 10-20 cents. Other markets traded up 2-15 cents per hundred pounds as feeding ratios favored sorghum over corn in poultry and cattle feeds.

OILSEEDS: A pick-up in export demand for soybeans, oil and meal boosted soybean values. Favorable crush ratios kept processors bidding against exporters for supplies as farmer selling continues light. Illinois Processor bids rose 9 1/2-10 1/2 cents per bushel. Minneapolis flaxseed went up 30 cents and sunflower seed advanced 80 cents per hundred pounds.

HIGHLIGHTS: Feedstuffs and feed grains traded mostly higher during the week ended November 5. Expanding export trade contributed most of the market strength. Domestic feeds demand is spotty as farmers are busy harvesting corn, sorghum and soybeans. Turkeys are moving to market in large numbers as the Thanksgiving holiday approaches.

OILSEEDS: Soybean meal markets were supported broadly by stronger cash soybean markets, lighter supplies of animal protein feeds and a pick-up in export trade. Decatur soybean meal rose $3.50 per ton for 44 percent and 48 percent protein meal. California cottonseed meal markets were steady but Southern mills market declined $2.50 per ton as recent price increases caused formula feed cut-back in cottonseed meal usage. Minneapolis linseed meal advanced $7.00 per ton and 28 percent protein sunflower meal rose $5.00 per ton. Minneapolis sunflower oil went up 1/4 cent and Decatur soybean oil rose nearly 3/4 cent per pound.

ANIMAL PROTEIN: Animal protein demand was slow and in spite of tightening supplies, the market was barely steady for meat and bone meal. Fish meal supply is tight but slow demand kept prices mostly steady. Feather meal traded mixed with good demand and tight supplies in southern areas but northern areas weakening as heavy turkey slaughter furnished increased feather meal production.

CORN FEEDS: Corn feeds were mostly unchanged in spite of cash corn market strength. Export demand furnished much of the market support but domestic usage is slow reflecting farmer occupation with harvest activities and plentiful on-farm grain supplies.

WHEAT MILLFEEDS: Flour mills lost a little run-time and the approaching Thanksgiving holiday is expected to tighten supplies further. Most wheat millfeeds markets were stronger and $1.00-6.00 per ton higher. The exception was St. Louis middlings, trading $2.00 lower per ton.

ALFALFA PRODUCTS: The alfalf harvest season has ended over most of the nation and prices showed a mostly stronger direction in spite of a lack of domestic demand. Fair export trade gave some support. Alfalfa Center Nebraska dehydrated alfalfa pellets traded $1.50 higher and several reground meal markets went up $1.00-3.00 per ton. Sun-cured alfalfa activity light but prices firming and up mostly $1.00-4.00 per ton.

MOLASSES: Feeding cane molasses trended steady across most of the nation but $2.50 higher per ton on the West coast. Overall demand remained light. Louisiana cane farmers are just now getting back into the fields, therefore the complete extent of damage done to the crop by hurricane Juan last week is not know. Sugarbeet molasses continued at steady price levels under good demand. Harvest is finished in Montana and Wyoming. Texas harvest is 25 percent complete.

FEED:

WEEKLY SUMMARY....19

FEEDSTUFFS: WHOLESALE PRICES....20-21

FEEDSTUFFS WHOLESALE PRICES OCTOBER 1985....22-23

HIGHLIGHTS: Wheat and feed grain markets closed mostly higher across the nation during the week ended November 14. Rain and snow delayed fall grain harvest. The weaker U.S. dollar market stimulated export trade, and adverse weather in other areas of the world damaged grain crops over wide areas.

WHEAT: Wheat markets moved mostly higher as farmer selling remained well regulated and demand expanded. Wheat inspections for export rose over 7 million bushels for last week. Kansas City No. 1 hard red winter ordinary protein wheat traded 4 1/4 cents higher for the week but fell 46 1/2 cents per bushel compared with last season. St. Louis No. 2 soft red winter wheat advanced 12-14 cents but dropped 15-23 cents from last year. Minneapolis No. 1 dark northern spring 14 percent protein wheat went up 2 1/2 cents and is up 10 3/4 cents per bushel compared to last season. Portland No. 1 soft white wheat closed steady to up 1 cent for the week, and is up 1-2 cents from last season.

CORN: Corn harvest made little progress this past week and rain or snow continued to fall over much of the remaining unharvested acreage throught the close of the period. Farmers sold little new crop grain, moving grain into storage and into the loan program. Kansas City No. 2 yellow corn traded 3 1/2 cents higher, down 33 1/4 cents per bushel from last season. White corn markets showed little activity at steady prices.

OATS AND BARLEY: Oats and barley markets were steady to moderately higher, supported by higher cash corn markets.

SORGHUM: Yellow sorhgum traded higher tending to follow the cash corn markets upward. Kansas City No. 2 yellow grain sorghum rose 5 cents, down 52-54 cents from the comparable date last season.

OILSEEDS: Soybean markets moved mostly higher, supported by expanded export trade, rain and snow delayed harvest and tight farmer holding. Illinois Proccesor bids ended 1 1/2 cents higher for the week, but this is down 86-96 1/2 cents per bushel from last season. Minneapolis flaxseed fell 10 cents, down $140 per bushel from last year. Duluth sunflower seed advanced 10 cents, but is down $3.50 per hundred pounds from last year.

SOURCE: FEDERAL GRAIN INSPECTION SERVICE

HIGHLIGHTS: Feed grains traded higher during the holiday shortened week ending November 13. Most of the market strength originated in reports of rain and snow delayed feed grain harvest. A moderate expansion in export trade contributed market support. Feedstuffs traded in mixed trends as demand showed only spotty expansion as most farmers had plentiful supplies of homegrown feeds and pasturage to fill most animal feed requirements. Heavy turkey slaughter cut poultry feed levels in some areas. Dairy feeding continued at a steady pace.

OILSEEDS: Soybean meal traded mixed as harvest pressure was offset in part by a pick-up in export trade and good supplemental feeding demand from cattle feeders. Decatur 44 percent protein soybean meal dropped $1.00 and 48 percent protein soybean meal closed 50 cents lower per ton. Solvent cottonseed meal advanced $3.50 at California Mills and Southern mills market weakened $3.00 at Memphis. Minneapolis linseed meal rose $5.00 and 28 percent protein sunflower meal advanced $10.00 per ton. Soybean oil rose about 1/2 cents per pound at Decatur.

ANIMAL PROTEIN: Meat meal markets traded mostly higher as steady export trade kept surplus material cleaned up in the Western half of the nation. Advances were held to about $5.00 per ton with domestic feed demand steady. Minneapolis feather meal markets declined as heavy turkey kill furnished large amounts of feathers and Arkansas Points showed steady prices with a firming undertone. Fish meal supplies are tight and all areas except the Gulf port markets trended higher.

CORN FEEDS: Strong cash corn markets kept corn feeds steady to higher as farmers sold little corn and harvest remained as much as 25 percent incomplete as rain and snow delayed combining.

WHEAT MILLFEEDS: November holiday schedules constricted flour milling and a steady demand tightened wheat millfeeds supplies and most markets traded higher. Minneapolis wheat middlings held steady, Buffalo market rose $6.50, St. Louis rose $7.00 and the Kansas City market went up $9.00 per ton.

ALFALFA PRODUCTS: Alfalfa markets were stady to higher as demand was unchanged but tight stocks and reduced production caused some concern that usage might cause shortages before new crop supplies would become available. Alfalfa Center, Nebrasksa dehydrated alfalfa pellets rose $1.00, California Mills reground meal traded steady, but the Toledo, Ohio market declined $1.00 per ton. Sun-cured alfalfa markets were dull and mostly unchanged.

MOLASSES: Feeding cane molasses unsettled with many markets trading steady to $5.00 higher per ton. Overall demand was moderate. The Louisiana cane crop suffered significant damage, but the extent of the damage is not known as farmers are still trying to get into the fields for harvesting. Sugarbeet molasses remained steady under good demand. Harvest is complete in the North Dakota-Minnesota area, however molasses yields are reported as being less than expected.

HIGHLIGHTS: Soybean markets fell sharply during the week ended November 21. Main downward pressure was furnished by trader ideas that farmers would cease tight holding policy of recent months and become free sellers. Brazilian dry soybean areas received much needed rain and this added weakness. Wheat and feed grain markets traded mixed as declining U.S. dollar values stimuilated export trade but large world grain supplies continue to cap grain prices.

WHEAT: Flour mills continue to support higher protein wheat values but plentiful supplies of lower protein wheats traded mostly lower. Kansas City No.1 hard red winter ordinary protein wheat eased 2 3/4 cents lower per bushel. St. Louis No.2 soft red winter wheat closed mixed, up 1 cent to down 1 cent per bushel. Minneapolis No.1 dark northern spring 14 percent protein wheat declined 10 cents and Portland No.1 soft white wheat traded 2-4 cents lower per bushel.

CORN: Yellow corn markets closed narrowly mixed as export trade continued at a good clip and farmer selling continued well regulated. Kansas City No.2 yellow corn eased 1/2 cent lower but white corn trade remains thin with a slight pick-up in demand raising bids 10 cents for truck or rail delivery to the nearby processing plant.

OATS AND BARLEY: Oats and barley traded light and prices were narrowly mixed.

SORGHUM: Sorghum harvest wind-up is delayed by rain and snow. Storage facilities are filling and some spots showed a little selling pressure. Western feed lots continued to take large amounts of sorghum. Export interest expanded a little. Kansas City No.2 yellow sorghum traded 4 cents lower per hundred pounds. The Texas High Plains market advanced 5-10 cents per hundred pounds.

OILSEEDS: Soybean markets fell sharply in spite of increased export trade, continued heavy crusher and favorable crush margins at processing plants and well regulated selling at farm level. Wet fields hampered harvest and field losses were accelerated. Illinois Processor soybean bids declined 33-35 cents per bushel.. Minneapolis flaxseed fell 10 cents per bushel. Minneapolis sunflower seed declined 25 cents per hundred pounds.

HIGHLIGHTS: Feed grains and mid protein feedstuffs traded mostly higher during the week ended November 19. Domestic and export demand remained quiet until the close of the period when a lower U.S. dollar market stimulated a surge of export trade. Cooler temeratures and increased snow cover caused a pick-up in domestic feedstuff orders.

OILSEEDS: Soybean meal markets fell under pressure of lower soybean prices, dull export and dull domestic feed interest and plentiful supplies of homegrown feeds of farms. Decatur 44 percent protein soybean meal declined $3.50 and 48 percent protein meal fell $4.00 per ton. Cottonseed meal traded mixed, up $5.00 at California Mills but Southern Mills markets fell $7.00 per ton under pressure of lower cost soybean meal. Minneapolis linseed meal went down $5.00 but 28 percent protein sunflower meal traded unchanged. Decatur soybean oil fell 1/2 cent per pound.

ANIMAL PROTEIN: Meat meal markets closed steady at Minneapolis but the Kansas City market fell sharply under pressure of slow demand and lower cost soybean meal. Minneapolis feather meal declined $5.00 per ton and southern points markets traded sharply lower. Fish meal markets were mostly unchanged in dull trade with light buying interest and light offerings.

CORN FEEDS: Corn feeds markets showed strength due to tight supplies and higher cash corn markets added support.

WHEAT MILLFEEDS: Wheat millfeeds were steady to higher with demand little changed but jobber short covering and the approaching holiday reduced run-time added support.

ALFALFA PRODUCTS: Alfalfa markets were mixed as harvest has been completed in most areas. Production is down for the year and good pasturage over much of the nation has limited domestic demand. Sharply colder temperatures and extended snow cover in Mountain and High Plains areas increased buying interest at the close.

MOLASSES: Feeding cane molasses mostly steady, however JATQundertone uneasy as demand for feed purposes are moderate to fair, while good quality molasses are suitable for ethanol production in limited supply in the Gulf. New crop supplies are delayed due to recent hurricane Juan. Much of the molasses presently being sold in the Houston area is only 43-44 percent sugars. Sugarbeet molasses shipments on schedule under previous contracts with good demand. Very few supplies remain unsold.

FEEDSTUFFS: Wholesale prices, dollars per ton, bulk except Soybean Oil, Sunflower Oil and Animal Fat cents per pound

Daily National Grain Summary (Barge Loadings - Wed., 1:30-3:00 PM Central)

HIGHLIGHTS: Oilseed markets turned strong as farmers held soybeans tightly when prices fell below loan levels. Wheat and coarse grains traded mixed in light holiday shortened trade.

WHEAT: Wheat markets traded mixed in light trade. Export demand slowed but farmer selling remained well controlled. Kansas City No.1 ordinary protein wheat fell 8 1/4 cents per bushel. St. Louis No.2 soft red winter wheat declined 9 cents per bushel. Minneapolis No.1 dark northern spring wheat 14 percent protein traded 3/4 cent lower per bushel. Portland No.1 soft white wheat finished unchanged.

CORN: Yellow corn markets closed narrowly mixed as export shipments picked up, farmers placed large amounts in loan programs and adverse weather hampered harvest completion. Omaha No.2 yellow corn rose 1-3 cents but the Kansas City market eased 1 cent lower per bushel. White corn trade extremely dull with rail bids steady at Kansas City.

OATS AND BARLEY: Oats traded lower at Toledo but reported firmly unchanged at Minneapolis as mill demand was good and farmer selling light. Barley markets firmed on good buying by western feeders. Los Angeles feed barley traded unchanged to 3 cents higher per bushel.

SORGHUM: Kansas City sorghum traded up 4 cents with offerings light and demand good from feedlots and poultry feeders. Texas High Plains market fell 15 cents per hundred pounds.

OILSEEDS: Soybean markets firmed as farmers placed large amounts under loan program. Illinois Processor bids advanced 13-15 cents per bushel. Larger than expected export loadings last week added support. Minneapolis flaxseed rose 5 cents per bushel. Duluth sunflower seed advanced 30 cents and the Minneapolis market rose 30 cents per hundred pounds.

HIGHLIGHTS: Feedstuffs and feed grains traded in mixed price trends during the week ended November 26. Demand picked up in areas of cold temperatures and snow cover but remained dull in areas where pastures and crop residues continue to furnish a large part of animal feed requirements. Export demand slowed.

OILSEEDS: Cold temperatures in northern areas increased animal feed requirements and soybean meal traded steady to mostly higher. Decatur 44 percent protein soybean meal finished unchanged but 48 percent traded 50 cents higher per ton. Other markets advanced $4.00-5.00 per ton. Cottonseed meal traded mixed with the California Mills market $1.50 higher but the Memphis market $2.50 lower per ton. Minneapolis scarce linseed meal advanced $10.00 but demand eased at the higher price level. Minneapolis 28 percent protein sunflower meal rose $5.00 per ton and sunflower oil advanced 1 cent per pound. Decatur soybean oil declined 80 points per pound.

ANIMAL PROTEIN: Meat meal markets trended mixed with tight supply, export demand tapered off and domestic demand remained light. Minneapolis meat meal fell $7.50 per ton. Feather meal markets traded generally lower as buying interest waned. Fish meal markets showed little activity but light stocks were tightly held and prices were generally at the top of last weeks quotations.

CORN FEEDS: Corn feeds markets showed a firming trend with production at the seasonal low point and demand was good enough to keep offerings cleaned up. Export demand had been good but eased as prices moved higher.

WHEAT MILLFEEDS: Flour millgrind has been heavy but the Thanksgiving holiday will cut into run-time and jobber short covering tightened supplies. Feed mixer buying remain spotty and mostly light. Buffalo middlings continue in tight supply and held steady, St. Louis market steady, Kansas City market $1.50 lower, and Minneapolis middlings rose $3.00 per ton. Portland millrun traded $1.00 lower per ton.

ALFALFA PRODUCTS: Alfalfa trade has been spotty with good movement to feedlots but with little buying interest in other areas. Stocks are light but the slow buying interest kept offerings at unchanged price levels going into the first week of December. Baled hay supplies are tightly held and traded mostly steady to higher in spots.

MOLASSES: Feeding cane molasses traded steady to $5.00 higher. Demand for molasses remained moderate at best for feeding purposes. Good quality molasses remained in limited supply as off shore shipments in the Gulf area have not arrived as expected. A large proportion of the supplies in the Houston area are running approximately 44 percent sugar. Sugarbeet molasses continue to be shipped under previous contracts with most supplies already committed.

HIGHLIGHTS: Soybean markets moved sharply higher as rain, sleet or snow covered most of the nations unharvested soybean acreage during the week ended December 5. Soybean harvest advanced only 2% last week. Farmers held wheat and soybeans tightly but sold corn and sorghum at a moderate pace. Wintry weather increased animal feed requirements and grains for feeding movement showed a fair pick-up. Export grain trade is sporatic and not heavy enough to maintain price strength.

WHEAT: Tight farmer wheat holding and a fair flour mill demand advanced wheat markets. Kansas City No.1 hard red winter ordinary protein wheat rose 13 3/4 cents. St. Louis No.2 soft red winter wheat advanced 17-19 cents. Minneapolis No.1 dark northern spring 14% protein wheat traded 12 1/4 cents higher. Portland No.1 soft white wheat went up 4 cents at $3.78-3.80.

CORN: Yellow corn markets firmed in spite of expanded farmer selling as wintry weather conditions delayed final crop harvest and increased animal feed requirements. Omaha No.2 yellow corn rose 1-4 cents. Kansas City No.2 milling quality white corn by rail delivery held unchanged.

OATS AND BARLEY: Oats and barley maarkets were mostly stronger but with a few weak spots as trade remains thin.

SORGHUM: Export and feed lot demand supported grain sorghum markets and the Texas High Plains price rose 10-15 cents.

OILSEEDS: Export trade slowed but tight farmer holding and fair processor demand moved soybean prices up 10-12 cents per bushel. Illnois Processor bids rose 10 cents. Minneapolis flaxseed moved up 10 cents to $5.35. Duluth sunflower seed advanced 15 cents.

INTERIOR

Exports from points other than listed above, including shipments by rail and truck.

HIGHLIGHTS: Most feedstuff and feed grain markets traded higher during the week ended December 3. Cold temperatures and extensive snow and ice cover stimulated increased livestock feeding. Plentiful on farm grain supplies continues to limit commercial feed expansion. Animal protein feeds and corn feeds continue in tight supply but demand is barely adequate to keep offerings cleaned up.

OILSEEDS: Soybean meal markets traded higher as farmers held soybeans tightly and forced processors to move prices higher to attract stocks. Decatur 44 percent protein meal traded $6.50 higher and 48 percent protein meal advanced $6.00 per ton. Solvent cottonseed meal markets traded mixed with California Mills up $6.00 but Southern Mills markets $1.25 per ton lower. Minneapolis linseed meal held steady in a thin market. Minneapolis 28 percent protein sunflower meal rose $10.00 per ton. Sunflower oil declined 3/4 cent per pound at Minneapolis and Decatur soybean oil eased slightly lower.

ANIMAL PROTEIN: Slack demand limited animal protein feed advances. Los Angeles meat and bone meal declined $2.50 per ton. Other markets were steady to slightly higher.

CORN FEEDS: Corn feeds showed a firm trend in spots of light trade as seasonally light production limited offerings. Stronger cash corn markets gave corn feeds additional support.

WHEAT MILLFEEDS: Flour mill grind tapered off and tightened wheat millfeeds offerings. Jobber short covering kept trade offerings cleaned up. A little expansion in manufactured feeds added support.

ALFALFA PRODUCTS: Alfalfa demand was limited because of icy highways but tight supplies kept processor offerings at firm price levels. Processors prepared to advance asked prices by $1.00-2.00 per ton for alfalfa pellets. Nebraska Platte Valley dehydrated alfalfa pellets and sun-cured hay markets were firmly unchanged. Most reground meal markets also held unchanged. Toledo, Ohio dehydrated alfalfa and sun-cured pellet rose $2.00 per ton. Baled alfalfa continued to move to southwestern feedlots in good volume.

MOLASSES: Feeding cane molasses traded mostly steady. Demand was light to moderate and trade was slow as many places were closed for the long holiday weekend. Sugar beet molasses remained at steady price levels with limited trade.

FEEDSTUFFS: Wholesale prices, dollars per ton, bulk except Soybean Oil, Sunflower Oil and Animal Fat cents per pound

FEED:

WEEKLY SUMMARY....19

FEEDSTUFFS: WHOLESALE PRICES....20-21

FEEDSTUFFS WHOLESALE PRICES NOVEMBER 1985....22-23

HIGHLIGHTS: Soybean traded sharply higher during the week ended December 12. Colder temperatures raised animal feed requirements and farmer selling continued at a light pace. A pick-up in export corn and sorghum sales supported these markets. Continued drought conditions in Brazil damaged a large portion of the newly planted acreage and caused delays in further plantings. Export wheat and flour trade expanded, raising most wheat prices.

WHEAT: Most wheat markets traded higher as farmers sold stocks sparingly and export trade expanded for wheat and wheat flour. Kansas City No.1 hard red winter ordinary protein wheat rose 1 1/2 cents per bushel. St. Louis No.2 soft red winter wheat advanced 4-7 cents per bushel. Minneapolis No.1 dark northern spring 14 percent protein wheat declined 4 1/2 cents per bushel as farmer selling was moderately above mills nearby needs. Portland No.1 soft white wheat rose 2 cents per bushel.

CORN: Corn export inspections were down slightly for the past week but new export business moved most markets higher. Omaha No.2 yellow corn traded 1 cent higher per bushel. Other yellow corn markets were up as much as 4 cents with the exception of Minneapolis, where slow demand forced the market 2 1/4 cents lower. White corn trade slow at unchanged prices.

OATS AND BARLEY: Oats and barley markets were mostly higher in light trade, supported by mostly higher cash corn markets.

SORGHUM: Sorghum traded higher under support from light farmer selling, cold temperatures over the southwest cattle feeding area, and stronger cash corn markets. Texas High Plains market rose 10 cents and the Kansas City market advanced 17 cents per hundred pounds.

OILSEEDS: Soybean markets traded higher supported by light farmer selling and reports of worsening drought situation in Brazil. Higher oil and meal markets added support. Illinois Processor bids for No.1 yellow soybean moved up 14 1/2-16 1/2 cents per bushel. Minneapolis flaxseed rose 5 cents per bushel. Duluth sunflower seed fell 15 cents but the Minneapolis market went up 65 cents per hundred pounds as processors raised bids to attract supplies.

INCLUDES SHIPMENTS TO CANADA. YELLOW CORN INCLUDES MIXED CORN

SOURCE: FEDERAL GRAIN INSPECTION SERVICE

HIGHLIGHTS: Feed grains and feedstuffs traded in mixed price trends during the week ended Dec. 10. Demand showed spotty expansion in snow and ice covered areas but icy roads delayed truck delivery. Export demand was limited by the relatively strong U.S. dollar market and large world stocks of grains.

OILSEEDS: Soybean meal traded mixed, generally higher in mid to southwestern areas but easier in northern and eastern areas. Decatur 44 percent protein soybean meal declined $2.50 and 48 percent protein meal fell $4.00 per ton. California Mills cottonseed meal dipped $2.00 lower but prices rose $3.75 per ton at Memphis. Southern areas continue to lose production due to adverse weather. Minneapolis linseed meal advanced $5.00 and 28 percent protein sunflower meal went up $5.00 per ton. Sunflower oil went up 1 1/4 cents per pound at Minneapolis. Decatur soybean oil rose almost 1 1/2 cents per pound.

ANIMAL PROTEIN: Animal protein movement picked up and tight stocks caused some spot market advances while an occasional spot moved lower as processors gave discounts to move product. Minneapolis meat meal traded $5.00 higher with other markets mostly unchanged in light trade. Fish meal lower to higher with most price changes narrow. Lower quotes came from processors anxious to clean out remaining supplies. Feather meal moved in increased volume at mostly unchanged prices.

CORN FEEDS: Cash corn markets traded mixed and tight corn products supply was tightly held at steady to slightly higher prices. Brewers dried grains showed sharp price advance in areas where prices were little changed the past few months. Stocks are at seasonal low point. Distillers' dried grains are in good demand at mostly steady prices. Export demand has tapered off but enough domestic demand surfaced to keep production of corn feeds cleaned up.

WHEAT MILLFEEDS: Flour mill grind expanded but mixer buying picked up and wheat middling markets traded mostly higher.

ALFALFA PRODUCTS: Alfalfa markets had a stronger tone and price changes were narrow but all on the higher side. Icy or snow covered roads delayed truck movement in many areas. Alfalfa Center Nebraska dehydrated alfalfa pellet prices were 50 cents per ton higher. A few reground meal markets also moved up $1.00 per ton. Baled hay prices were generally unchanged. Sun cured alfalfa pellet trade continues slow but most recent price changes have been on the up side.

MOLASSES: Feeding cane molasses steady to $5.00 higher per ton. Trade slow and demand fair with no off-shore tenders in the offering at the present time. In the Houston area the limited available supply of 46 percent sugars is offered at $65.00, however, the bulk of supply available in that area is running approximately 43-44 percent sugars and offered from $62.50-70.00 per ton. Sugar beet molasses steady with bulk of supply previously contracted.

FEEDSTUFFS: Wholesale prices, dollars per ton, bulk except Soybean Oil, Sunflower Oil and Animal Fat cents per pound
